Several sectorial directorates or agencies of IMC CPMR Regions are involved in each of these projects consortia, together with several other territorial or scientific partners.
The role of the CPMR in all modular projects will be first of all to be responsible of the Communication package and the relation with the Horizontal projects (2.1 on energy efficiency and 3.1 on tourism). The CPMR will also have a set of specific activities dealing with the organization of seminars, workshops, conferences, drawing up of Action Plans (for dissemination, transfer, testing) or studies, policy papers, lobbying activities, depending on the project. All these activities will enable synergies with the CPMR Intermediterranean Commission Working groups and political activities.

Of course in the priority 3.1, which is maybe one of the most important for the MED, the concurrence is enormous, so the idea has been to be present in 5 totally different proposals (all relevant for the Intermediterranean Commission activities) in order to have a higher success rate. To this extent, the aim is to develop complementarities instead of concurrency.

<td>Both the following proposal are built upon the experience of COM&amp;CAP MarInA-Med and the capitalized projects. They will have the main aim to assist the program and the modular projects in the transversal communication and capitalization activities towards the key stakeholders, including EU and territorial players and lobbying activities. Intermediterranean Commission members will be able to directly benefit from the projects outputs and the organization of events, the opportunity to interact, consolidate networks and exploit all connections for feeding their political and technical reflections on various themes of interest.</td>

  Partnership: Lead Partner – European Topic Center, University of Malaga.

  Other partners: MedCities (Barcelona Metropolitan Area), Plan Bleu, UNIMED, Regional Environmental Center for Central & Eastern Europe (Montenegro), IMC-CPMR.

  Comments: The proposal is linked to the follow-up of Med-IAMER, is very consistent and the partnership is solid and heterogeneous. If approved, it will allow the Intermediterranean Commission and the CPMR members to benefit of a wide range of project results in itinere, to participate in relevant debates and to link the COM&CAP activities to the monitoring the implementation of directives as the MSFD on the territory, and to work on the development of ecosystem services in Protected Areas. The project includes an innovative proposal of “knowledge platform” for the MED.

Comments: Very good opportunity for the IMC CPMR (and its Regions) to work on maritime investments, RIS3, and the mainstreaming of ESIF at Med level, enlarging its network of stakeholders and contacts. Training activities on BG&Innovation are also foreseen. The modular projects to be capitalized may focus on some of the 5 topics of Blue Growth.

Duration: October 01, 2016 / September 30, 2019.

Total eligible budget of the project: € 1,411,764.71.

Total eligible budget for CPMR: € 226,225.20 (85% co-funded)

Status: simplified application submitted in January 2016, passed the first administrative eligibility check, and the first content evaluation step with a very good evaluation. Full application form submitted the 24/6. Currently under last step technical evaluation (results foreseen in September 2016). It has no concurrent proposals.

Notes concerning both proposals

The 1st evaluation step only required the preparation of the pre-application form i.e. the partnership relevance to the action (contest, transnationality, etc.), and the methodology (relation between the HP and the modular ones, work organization/management, partners’ responsibilities/added values, etc.). We produced a general scenario and tried to make hypotheses as we did not know the focus of the modular projects that would be selected by then. Though an approximation of the overall budget was prepared, the administrative documentation associated to the dossier was minimal; it has been however increased in the second step with the few information that we received on the pre-approved modular projects, tailoring strategies, tools, and budget accordingly, and drawing specific links with the axis 4 on governance. The projects are supposed to be selected in September 2016 and start in October-November of the same year.

Very important: relations with the AXIS 4 on governance: the Members States are still discussing about it. On the one hand, there will be a unique “platform project” starting in the first semester of 2016 and “top down” oriented on two priority topics. There will be working groups tackling these topics of the Program (e.g. sustainable tourism and maritime and marine surveillance, to be decided by the states) and migration as a transversal one -- where the States will agree to have multilevel discussions at Med level (knowledge-based discussions, “meta capitalization at Med level,” mainstreaming with ESIF, coordination with other initiatives and networks at Med level in order to enhance their impacts. This working groups will also be the place where the ideas for future strategic projects will be conceptualized.

Regions will be able to participate in the WGs but there is no clarity about the specific role of networks as the CPMR and its IMC, although it would be probably included one way or another. Even if the role of our network is still not specified, the key bridging role of the horizontal projects in this overall architecture of the axis 4 is already very clear as they will provide evidence-based results for the discussions with the ministries and represent an entire thematic community (promoting the integration of such visions into national policies). So, to succeed with the HP proposal will imply to get very much involved with the core discussion.

Tailored communication per end-user/target: in the methodology we had to work on this concept. Another key element is also the community building among modular projects (we will have to involve them in a cross-fertilization process, speed dating, capacity building/cross visiting/mutual reporting during events etc.). Clusterization, when relevant, shall also be developed (thematically or by target/end-user). We will also have to foresee an active participation in important EU / MED / global events on behalf of the project community during the life of the project.

Several Intermediterranean Commission Regions already manifested their will to be external associates in both proposals (an envelope for travels in our budgets has been reserved for that matter, and roles have been defined as well). As a general remark, we have foreseen a methodology for the advisory board and the associated partners in both projects, and then defined the final list of the most relevant ones.

It is also to note that many of the events foresee in this project could be organized back to back with IMC CPMR statutory events and the future conferences linked to the cooperation with the Union for the Mediterranean on blue economy or the emerging strategies as EUSAIR or the Western Med initiative.

In all three projects, the role of the CPMR will be to disseminate the results of the projects on an ad hoc basis throughout its networks and working groups. There is no financial commitment involved when being associated partner. The travel expenditures are supported by the projects if CPMR were predicted to travel.

Considerations on the budget implications and duration of all Interreg Med projects

At budgetary level, the 150-300.000 euros budget of each project will be spent over 2/3 years (depending on the type of project/modules) starting in the last trimester 2016 or the first of 2017. Co-funding 85% ERDF, 15% CPMR.

Furthermore, for both horizontal and modular projects, we will be able to charge (as consortium) the fees of preparation of the project (up to 30.000 euros lump sum for project approved) and the overheads during their implementation and at the end (flat rate calculated as the 15% of the staff costs).

All this, combined with the current cash flow of the CPMR and Intermediterranean Commission budget, the high concurrence in the program that will reduce the probabilities of getting an approval on all the proposals, will ensure the possibility to cope with financial management adequately.

Besides, the approval of several projects will also ensure the consolidation and possible enlargement of the team working for the CPMR / Intermediterranean Commission Secretariats.
